Flowchart of typical project steps towards successful project completion

CORENA is available to answer questions at all stages of the project development process and provides technical advice to ensure your project is best suited to benefit both your organisation and the climate. For additional queries please contact us.

1. Check eligibility	You (Applicant)	Us (CORENA)
	Check our project types and eligibility criteria on the CORENA website. Community organisations from across Australia are encouraged to apply.	We reply to your questions by email or phone if you are still not sure.

⇩

2. Gather information	Our Expression Of Interest form details all the information required for an application. Before applying, ensure the decision makers in your organisation will approve a CORENA project if/when suitable details are developed.	We reply to your questions by email or phone if you have technical questions.

⇩

3. Submit the EOI	Submit the Expression of Interest form.	CORENA will assess the project suitability and appoint a manager for your project who will contact you to discuss technical details and project components. We may ask for more details from you at this stage.

⇩

4. Confirm project details	Discuss project details with CORENA and obtain quotes from local providers. Send quotes to CORENA for validation. Check availability of state government subsidies which might reduce how much you need to borrow from CORENA.	We will assist by checking the quotes meet standards and price expectations. CORENA will calculate the organisation's estimated savings and discuss the loan repayment schedule with you.

⇩

5. Join the funding queue	Confirm approval from your decision makers to proceed with the project so we can add you to the funding queue. Help with local promotion of your project.	CORENA will promote your project to our audience and donors until we have sufficient donations and loan repayments from previous projects to cover your loan.

⇩

5. Install your new climate initiative Thank you!	When funding is almost complete, you will book the installation, tell us the installation date, and sign our loan agreement. Send us photos of the completed project.	We will transfer the loan amount to you so you can pay for the project. We will assist with any queries and report completion of your project on our website.
